Bristolville, Ohio

HABS No. 0-263

This church was organized around 1825, being the first church in the community.

The present building was erected in 1843 on the edge of the graveyard east of the village, as the church became more prosperous.

In 1845 this building was dedicated as a combination Congregational and Presbyterian Church.

The church was erected under the supervision of a farmer who was one of the few members who knew something of building. The rest of the Congregation contributed their labor and shared the material cost.
